The City of Winston-Salem's Office of Performance and Accountability is currently recruiting for an open Business Analyst position.

The Office of Performance and Accountability has a dynamic, energetic environment that handles strategic planning, internal auditing, performance management, and selected special projects for the City of Winston-Salem.

The position will work mainly in performance management and strategic planning. This will include working collaboratively with City departments to tackle process improvement issues and on assignments from the City Manager's Office to perform evaluations of departmental performance. The position will also provide support to strategic planning facilitation and goal attainment.

The ideal candidate should have experience in creating and using performance metrics to help manage business practices and oversee strategic objectives with a heavy focus on effectiveness and outcome-oriented metrics. The ideal candidate would also have great communication skills and the ability to establish and maintain effective working relationships with departmental personnel and executive level management.

Come join a great team in a small office environment that provides challenging opportunities to work with multiple stakeholders across an organization to help build better processes and better decision-making tools.

All interested candidates should submit an application through the City's NeoGov portal before January 9, 2020. Links to the webpages are provided at the bottom of the page.

To apply, visit www.cityofws.org, and click on the "Jobs" tab (or click the link below).
